Abstract

This study aimed to determine the reading interests of BSCA students. The participants of this descriptive research were 128 randomly selected BSCA students of John B. Lacson Foundation Maritime University-Molo Inc., during the second semester of school year 2008-2009. The BSCA students were classified as to their sex, place of residence, socio-economic status, year level and academic performance. The data gathered were analyzed using the frequency count, percentage, and rank. Results of the study showed that the top five reading interests of BSCA students were entertainment, comedy/humorous, adventure, supernatural/horror and sports.
