Abstract

A Qualitative type of research was used in the conduct of this study, aimed to gather perceptions on how does the graduating BS Tourism students view the WET or Work Experience Training. The respondents were the six (6) purposively chosen students of John B. Lacson Foundation Maritime University - Molo. The researchers used a semi-structured interview method to gather data for the said study. The major result of the study is that respondents have common idea on how they perceived WET or Work Experience Training which is the application of all the knowledge and skills that they have learned in school.
